During a recent meeting with 300 (ret.) generals in Jakarta, the political rival of President Jokowi, Prabowo Subianto, tried to convince them that his running the 2019 presidential race is similar to fighting for sovereignty. The meeting took place in Jakarta on Saturday (22 September).

In response to his statement, they made a declaration, promising him to support him and his running mate Sandiaga Uno in the election.

According to one of those Generals, Marshal (ret.) Imam Sufaat, their declaration is based on their being still patriotic with their strong nationalism.

They are also attracted to Prabowo's idea on the people's economic system, promising Indonesians to achieve peace, prosperity and social justice.

Prabowo also invited them to fight together against poverty, illiteracy, and the disintegration of the nation. They were also to promise to guard Pancasila, implement the missions of the 1945 Constitution and to eradicate communism and capitalism.

Admittedly he said that he was surprised to their responses. Not only did he said that it was his honour to be supported by him, but he was also convinced that they were assigning him to accomplish all those goals.
